SSI Young Scientis Award (Theory/Application)

SSI has introduced Young Scientist Award for Systems Theory and Applications to honour the young Scientists and Engineers below the age of 40 who have made significant contribution in the area of Theory and Application of System Science & Engineering.

The application can be submitted to the Secretary, Systems Society of India with a CV. The application should be submitted along with a forwarding letter from the Head of the Institute of the applicant. The application is presented to a competent committee which makes recommendation to the executive committee of SSI. The award is generally given during the National Systems Conference.